

Greetings!

This is a very exciting time for the Hurley Library and I could not be more thrilled to be working as Library Supervisor right now. Since the Hurley Library's inception in 1958, it has been a beacon of light in the town. It is a place to learn, grow, make connections, and share. Our future is bright, and it includes you.

As the Library Supervisor, it is my job to make sure that you are able to get the most that you can out of your library. Please know that you are always welcome here, and we will do our absolute best to make sure that you get what you need. Whether it is a quiet place to read or study, help finding just the right book, learning to knit, making copies or sending faxes, or just a friendly, "Hey, how are you?" our doors are always open (except on Fridays and Sundays).

If there is something you think we could do better, or a program we could offer you that we don't already have, please let us know. If there is something you think we are doing right, please let us know as well! This is your library and we are here to help.

Please check this website often for updates on the progress on our new building, and information about programs we are offering.

Thanks for stopping by, and I hope to see you at the library soon!

Sincerely,

Caitlin Decker

Library Supervisor
